

PERFORMANCE COATINGS

Introducing
Performachrome™
Perhaps the perfect finish, now considered the industry standard for the brightest ceramic finish available. No "blueing" like chrome or "browning" like stainless, and it can withstand 1600°.

"So much like chrome you'll have to look twice"

Metallic thermal barrier ceramic coatings were developed for the Aerospace industry to provide both a protective coating and a heat barrier.

Ceramic coatings not only look great, but are extremely long lasting while lowering your car's under-hood temperature, which adds value – and is a great reason by itself have your exhaust system ceramic coated. Most of the heat generated under the hood comes from your exhaust system. That heat, felt inside the cockpit, makes air conditioners work extra hard to keep the interior comfortable. And with no air conditioning, it can become unbearable.

The "next level" in high-temp automotive ceramic coating

Performance Coatings specializes in durable, high temperature ceramic finishes made to meet a spectrum of demands – from top fuel dragsters to concours show cars. Our business is long-lasting coatings made to withstand intense heat while providing an exquisite finish.

We're the world's only source for PERFORMACHROME™, our own patented process for the brightest and most chrome-like ceramic process in the world. We like to say it's so close to chrome that you have to look twice. It has made us the leader in decorative automotive exhaust system finishes.

Most companies in this business are "industrial coaters" who have found a demand in the automotive market, but many don't truly understand the level of quality necessary to satisfy a car enthusiast.

Restorers love our "no points lost" OEM Cast Iron Gray exhaust manifold finish, and PERFORMACHROME™ will dazzle any street rod or high performance car owner. And if you're a racer, our Competition Black will withstand 2000°.

We're custom-finishing experts, totally devoted to giving you a superior finish – yet, in most cases, we're less expensive than our competitors. A better product at a lower price? Yes...and you'll agree the minute you see your parts for the first time with a Performance Coatings finish.

"PERFORMANCE COATINGS is way above the others. They provide the quality of finish we require for the cars we build here, plus their turnaround time is really fast. Nobody else can match them for quality and quick service."

Performance Coatings also operates a full-service POWDER COATING plant within the same facility – so when you send your exhaust parts, consider including anything you'd like POWDER COATED. We offer a fast turnaround time... and best of all, you can have it all done right here.
